

JOAN H. BARTLETT

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Mrs. Bartlett was born Joan M. Harding in Waltham, Massachusetts. In 1957 she married Samuel Bartlett and accompanied him on his assignments as Foreign Service Officer in the United States and abroad.

Background

- Born and raised in Massachusetts
- McGill University
- Married in 1957 to Samuel Bartlett
- Accompanied husband at Harvard Law School
- Husband's law practice
- Husband joined the State Department Foreign Service in 1965

Accompanied her husband on his assignments 1965-1986

- State Department, Washington, D.C. 1965
 - Husband's foreign language training

- Paris, France 1965-1966
 - Environment
 - Ambassador Charles Bohlen
 - Housing and recreation

- The Hague, Netherlands 1966-1968
 - Environment
 - Raising family
 - Embassy morale
 - Club de Jeudi
 - Travel and recreation
 - Schooling
 - School orchestra

- Cebu, Philippines 1968-1970
 - Environment
 - Philippine hospitality
 - Entertaining
 - Recreation
 - Volunteer work
 - Schooling

- Washington, D.C. 1970-1975
 - Alcoholics Anonymous (AA)

Ottawa, Canada	1975-1978
Recreation
Museum volunteer work
Orchestra
Washington, D.C	1978
Husband's foreign language training and home leave
Family Liaison Office (FLO) assistance
Unrest in San Salvador
Education of children
San Salvador, El Salvador (evacuated after six months)	1978-1980
Conflict and unrest
Evacuation of dependents
Death threats
Security
Emergency evacuation planning
Embassy attacked
Boston, Massachusetts	1980-1981
Husband' sabbatical leave
Washington, D.C.	1981-1983
Husband liaison with Capitol Hill
Belfast, Ireland	1983-1986
Catholics and Protestant relations
Comments on life as the wife of a Foreign Service Officer
Working abroad
Entertaining
Children
Ireland's "Maracycle"
Life in Washington D.C. area
Career satisfaction	