

MARSHALL D. BROWN

CONTENTS

Early years and education
Joined the Peace Corps in Peru	1962
Worked with the Foundation for Cooperative Housing	1964
Joined USAID/Brazil	1965
Transferred to the Development Resources Office
Views on the Alliance for Progress Interesting country situations and "graduates"
Views on sector program financing
Advancement to Deputy Assistant Administrator in the Latin America Bureau	1981
Views on the Caribbean Basin Initiative
Role in the Central America Initiative
Assigned to the AID Counselor position
Opportunities as USAID/Director in Egypt	1987
Transfer to Mission Director in Honduras	1991
Concluding observations on AID and international development programs

KEY WORDS

Administrator Peter McPherson agriculture projects Alliance for Progress appropriate technology
Brazil
Caribbean Basin Initiative
Caribbean Private Sector Development Bank

Census and statistics development projects
Central America Initiative
Central American Institute for Administration of Business (INCAE)
Chile
Colombia
commodity import programs
Congress
Contras
Costa Rica
country graduates
Cuba
decentralization democracy and justice development programs Development Resources Office in LAC Development Assistance
Economic Support Fund (ESF)
education projects
Egypt
El Salvador
Foundation for Cooperative Housing health projects
Honduras
human rights
infrastructure projects
Inspector General
InterAmerican Development Bank
Latin America Bureau
Latin America AgriBusiness Development Corporation (LAD)
Latin America
local currency projects
Municipality development programs
New Directions policy and Basic Human Needs Nicaragua
Northeast Brazil development
Panama
Peace Corps
Peru
PL 480
policy reform and dialogues President Mubarak
private sector development
Private Enterprise Bureau (PRE)
Regional Office for Central America Programs (later Panama) (ROCAP)
Savings and loan development program science and technology development sector programming

self-help housing

State Department

technology transfer

USAID's four pillars—policy dialogue, institution building, private sector, technology transfer

water and sewage projects

World Bank