

FRANK N. BURNET

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Background

Youth in New York
Service in WW II
Investment work in New York
Foreign Service Exam
Diplomatic courier

Manila

1951-1954

Consular and political officer
Philippines in early 1950s
Ambassador Spruance
American influence in the Philippines
Chinese language course
Importance of language training

Bangkok

1957-1959

Political officer
Chinese community in Thailand
Chinese role in Thailand
Stability of Thai government
Syngman Rhee

Far East Bureau

1961-1963

Staff assistant to Governor Harriman
Impressions of Kennedy transition
Impressions of Harriman
Harriman's mandate from Kennedy
Importance of Laos
View of the Sino-Soviet axis

Vientiane

1963-1966

International Control Commission officer
Negotiations over Laos
Impression of international delegations
Canadian role
Result of negotiations
View of American buildup in Vietnam
Communist activity in Laos
Relations with U.S. military
State/Military rivalry
Instructions from Washington

Impression of war 1966 Relations with CIA
CINCPSC Deputy Political Advisor Impression of military command network Effectiveness of air war Relations between DOD and State	1966-1967
Ben Hoa, Vietnam Experience during Tet offensive Vietnam after Tet Province senior advisor Nature of the war VC attacks Impression of Vietnam in 1969 Impression of John Vann Pressure to show progress	1967-1969
Laos Desk Bombing of Laos Feeling about Laos in Washington Reason for transfer	1970-1971
INR S.E. Asia Chief Restrictions on intelligence Heavy demand for information Impression of war from INR 1972 visit to Vietnam	1971-1975
Taipei Political Counselor Impressions of embassy Chinese officials on Taiwan Chinese reaction to fall of Saigon Taiwan in 1975 Carter human rights emphasis	1975-1978
Conclusion Greatest satisfaction The Foreign Service as a career	