

AINSLIE EMBREE

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Biographic Outline: The Acceptance of A College Teaching Position in India and Ten Years There

The Trail into USIA (And USIS/India)

1977: Recruited by Newly Appointed Ambassador Robert Goheen as CAO, India

Embree Was Sent Out to India Knowing Nothing of Embassy/USIS Procedures or Overall Requirements of CAO Position, But Long Previous Experiences in India Gave Him Easy Access to Journalists, Academics, and High Ranking Politicians

From the Beginning of His Tour, Embree Is Involved Extensively in USEFI

Embree Had Grave Doubts Re Utility of American Fulbright Teachers in India, and Many Teachers Themselves Were Frustrated

Indian Academic Community and Government Exhibited Growing Resentment at the Way US Was Conducting Fulbright Teaching Assignments and at Mind Set of US Teachers

Establishment – ad Presumed Role – of the Indo-American Sub Commission

Indians Had Expected a Government Controlled Commission on US Side and Never Understood How the Commission was Structured

Assessment of Ambassador Goheen and Other American Ambassadors Who Served in India in the Preceding Decade or Two

At Time of Embree's Arrival, Communist Newspaper Falsely Accuses Him of Close Connections with Right Wing Hindu Organization; Threatens to Run Him Out of India

Embree's Comments on Some of Most Important Cultural Activities Going on in India During his Period as CAO

Frequent Resentment Toward, and Misunderstanding of Foreign Service Officers by American Academics Visiting or Living in a Foreign Country

Comparisons of India 1948-1958 and India in Late 1970s

Small Incidents of Indian Government Denying Embree Trip to Bhutan

Mrs. Embree's Activities During Delhi Tour

Embree's Views of Special Contributions of Cultural Diplomacy and a Specific Problem Faced by Our International Visitors Program