

AMBASSADOR RAYMOND L. GARTHOFF

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Background
Experience overseas as youth and influence
Princeton
Learning the Russian language
Masters and doctorate at Yale
RAND Corporation	1950-1957
Work on Soviet military doctrine
Nature of work with RAND
Lecturing at War College
Trip to Soviet Union in 1957
Central Intelligence Agency	1957-1961
Office of National Estimates (ONE)
Nature of ONE
Desire to become involved in policy-making
Department of State	1961-1979
Bureau of Political-Military Affairs	1961-1968
Involvement in arms control issues
Nature of Bureaucracy
The Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA)
Relations between State and ACDA
Satellite reconnaissance issues
Role of the Cuban Missile Crisis and recent book
Visits to Eastern Europe and Soviet Union
1959 Nixon trip to Moscow
Impressions of Nixon
The Kitchen Debate
NATO Negotiator on Brussels	1968-1970
Preparations for the SAL Talks
Effects if the 1968 Soviet Invasion of Czechoslovakia
ACDA control of SALT
The Nuclear Planning group (NPG)
The Mutually Balance Force Reduction negotiations (MBFR)
Position as Executive Secretary of SALT delegation
Gerry Smith
The structure if the SALT delegation

Problems with the delegation Exploratory informal discussions with Russian delegates Logistical problems
Deputy Director of Bureau of Political-Military Affairs (PM) Effects of conduct during SALT Political changes in SALT delegation PM's view of SALT negotiations	1970-1973
Senior Seminar at War College Value of Senior Seminar Problems with Kissinger	1974-1975
Inspection Corps Nature of inspections Variety of posts and experiences	1975-1977
Ambassador to Bulgaria Interest in Eastern Europe Restrictions in Bulgaria Jamming of VOA transmissions Show window at Embassy Sofia-Bucharest-Belgrade embassy discussions Macedonian problem Cooperation on drug trafficking problems Language problem Problems with communication Desire to return to academic pursuits	1977-1979
Conclusion Brookings Institution Publications on U.S. –Soviet relations and arms control Recent visits to the Soviet Union	