

AMBASSADOR E. GREGORY KRYZA

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Background
Junior Naval Officer
Naval Attaché's Office, Tangier Morocco
Supreme Allied Command Atlantic
Vice Consul, Curacao, Dutch West Indies
Wriston Program
McCarthy era
Bureau of Near East and South Asian Affairs	1959-1963
Obtaining reimbursements from other foreign affairs agencies
Reallocating money to State Department
Administrative Officer, Nairobi, Kenya	1963-1967
Independence and power struggle
USS Manley and the evacuation of U.S. citizens from Zanzibar
Ambassador Atwood and country team meetings
Nairobi as the regional center
Role of USAID in Kenya
Operation Dragon Rouge, to rescue American hostages in Belgian Congo
Dealing with Kenyan government officials
Kenya during transitional period
Kinshasa, Congo (Zaire)	1968-1970
Combined Administrative Management Office
American staff
U.S. relations with Congo (Zaire)
Living Conditions
Inspector
Executive Director of African Affairs	1974-1977
Department of State hierarchy
Duties of Executive Director
Replacement of Ambassador Jean Wilkowski
U.S. policy in Africa
Advantages of an African post
Ambassador to Mauritania	1977-1980
Mauritania's fisheries
Mauritania's demography
Political situation
Ousting Makhtar Ould Daddah, founding father and the embassy's reaction

Bilingual government: French and Arabic

Other foreign influences in Mauritania: France, Morocco, Soviet Union, China

Desertification

Support from African Bureau

Conclusion

Greatest satisfaction

Foreign Service as a career