

AMBASSADOR ALAN W. LUKENS

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Background
Princeton/Georgetown
Army Service in WWII
Early interest in foreign affairs
Early assignment with USIS
Ankara/Istanbul	1951-1954
Cultural affairs officer
Turkey in the early 1950's
Impact of Truman Doctrine
Progress of USIS in Turkey
Martinique	1954-1956
Political Affairs Officer
French rule in Martinique
Press Office at State	1956-1957
Publicizing the Foreign Service
Problems with the press program
Paris	1956-1960
International Staff of NATO
Impressions of NATO
Paul Henri Spaak
European concentration on politics in NATO
Impressions of Soviet threat in 1950's
U.S. interests in European integration
Brazzaville	1960-1961
Principal Officer
Origin of assignment
Nature of French Equatorial Africa
Independence of Belgium Congo
French colonial politics
U.S. interests in Africa
Independence ceremonies
State position on independence movements
Evacuation of Americans
Lumuma and the fight against Katanga
Problems with establishing embassies
Hostility toward the United States

	Family Tragedy and end of assignment
Paris	Political Officer General Gavin as Ambassador Origin of assignment as special assistant to Gavin Gavins relations with de Gaulle Ambassador Bohlen The Ambassador and the embassy Transfer to African section of embassy U.S. relations with de Gaulle	1961-1963
Rabat	Kennedy meeting debacle Moroccan base closing U.S. relations with Morocco Impressions of Soapy Williams African personnel work for State	1963-1965
Dakar	Deputy Chief of Mission Situation in Senegal American interests in Senegal	1967-1970
Nairobi	Deputy Chief of Mission Origin of assignment Role of economic interests in U.S. policy	1970-1972
State Personnel	Evaluation of new personnel Problems with personnel system	1972-1974
Iberian Desk	Country Director Situation in Spain and Portugal Kissinger and Frank Carlucci Development of Portugal policy Azores negotiations CIA cooperation	1974-1975
Consul General in Capetown	Unique role of Capetown CG U.S. companies in district Nature of South Africa South Africa in 1980	1978-1982

Success of South African policy
Disinvestment of American companies
Sullivan Principles
Impression of South African officials

INR at State 1982-1984
Head of Western Europe Division
Impressions of INR

Ambassador to the Congo 1984-1987
Origin of Assignment
Changes in Congo situation
Importance of establishing U.S. business presence
Sassou visit to Washington
Relations with Soviet Ambassador in Brazzaville
Soviet threat in the Third World
Need for flexibility in American policy

Conclusion
Greatest career satisfaction