

AMBASSADOR ROBINSON MCILVAINE

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Background
Journalist
State Department during the McCarthy period
Public opinion and the image of Foreign Service
Foreign Service	1953-1956
Wriston Program
Caribbean Commission	1953-1956
DCM, Lisbon, Portugal	1956-1959
Ambassador Bonbright vs. Ambassador Elbrick
Duties as DCM
Senior Seminar
Consul General, Leopoldville	1960-1961
Instructions from State Department
Embassy staff
Political situation and embassy objectives
Political leaders and contact with the embassy
Role of United Nations
Frank Carlucci
American Missionaries
Travel in Zaire
Mobutu's overthrow
Trying to establish United Nations involvement
Ambassador to Dahomey (Benin)	1961-1964
Appointment
Kennedy administration's attitude toward Africa
Political situation
Role of the Embassy
French presence in Benin
Infrastructure
Minorities in the Foreign Service
Coups d'etat
Ambassador to Guinea	1966-1969
Appointment
Political situation and co-presidency with Nkrumah
Ghanaian kidnapping of Guinea's Foreign Minister
U.S. diplomats taken hostage

African mob mentality
U.S. relations with Guinea
Western and Eastern presence in Guinea
Sekou Toure
East German disinformation against the U.S.
Chinese presence in Guinea
Travel in Guinea
Stokely Carmichael

Ambassador to Kenya

1969-1973

Appointment
Political situation
Relations with Vice President Moi
Peace Corps and AID
British presence
Asian businesses in Kenya
Geopolitical problems and the East African Community
American businesses and oil exploration

Conclusion

Great accomplishments
Frustrations
Foreign Service as a career
U.S. focus on Africa
Effects of Vietnam