

AMBASSADOR MABEL MURPHY SMYTHE

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Wife of US Ambassador Hugh Smythe to Syria (1965-1967) Malta (1967-1969):

Background and career husband Hugh Smythe, US Ambassador to Syria and Malta.

Circumstances of appointment
Reception by Syrians of a black US Ambassador
Reception by Maltese of a black US Ambassador
Relations with State Department
US relations with Malta and Syria
Syrian government
US Naval visit to Malta
1967 Arab-Israel War
“Embassy in Exile”
Support of Foreign Service Officers
Damascus embassy stoned
Nasser pressures King Hussein to involve US in Israel attacks
Embassy Damascus evacuation
Syrian students to US
Charitable work in Damascus
Lebanon
Personal background
Non-government career
Advice re blacks in the Foreign Service
Crossroads Africa
Views on peace in the Middle East
Illness
Personal characteristics
Educated at Atlanta University
National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP)
Influence on young Foreign Service Officers
Affection for Africa
Family Members,
US Mission Staff at the UN	1961-1962
Fulbright professor to Thailand	1963-1964

Ambassador Mabel Murphy Smythe; Background

Born and raised in Alabama
Mt. Holyoke College; Northwestern University; University Wisconsin
College Professor; Northwestern University and other colleges and universities
Professor, Shiga University, Japan	1951-1953
US Advisory Commission on Educational Exchange
Delegate, UNESCO General Conference	1964

Phelps-Stokes Fund
US African policy
Parents' background, education and careers
Marriage
Family
Influential black Americans
Member, US delegation to UNESCO General Conference
Member, Advisory Commission on Education and Cultural Affairs
Consultant, Encyclopedia Britannica
United Nations Development Program
Member, Board of Trustees, Spelman College

Damascus, Syria; Wife of US Ambassador Hugh Smythe 1965-1967

Speechmaking
Syrian views re status of women
Arab-Israel conflict
Religions
Racial issue
Jewish presence
Environment
Diplomatic colony
Travel
Geography

Ambassador to Cameroon, Mabel Smythe 1977-1980

Environment
Policy recommendations
Organization of African Unity (OAU)
President Ahmadou Ahidjo
Carter Administration policies
Rhodesia sanctions
Languages
British/French legacies
Legal system
Representation functions
Black American interest
Andrew Young visit
Local sensitivities
Government
Elections
Reception as female ambassador
Diplomatic corps
"Roots" film showings
University expansion
US African policy
US AID projects

Black Americans and Africa
US relations with black Africa
Organization of African Unity and the US
Advice to black Americans to participate in foreign policy

Ambassador to Equatorial Guinea, Mabel Murphy Smythe 1979-1980
E. Guinea under Spanish
Former President Macias Nguema
Environment
Infrastructure
President Obiang
US policy
Hope for the future