

AMBASSADOR JOHN M. STEEVES

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Background

- Born in North Dakota 1905
- German/Canadian
- Seventh day Adventist College in Washington State
- Educational missionary in Far East
- WWII – Office of War Information
- China-Burma theater
- US Army operations in India
- USIS birth and operations

Early post-war years NEA

1945-1948

- Near East and Africa Division
- Loy Henderson
- Ray Hare
- UN conservative vs. liberal foreign policy
- Drew Pearson conflict
- Palestine/Israeli issue

New Delhi, India

1948-1950

- Ambassador Loy Henderson
- Public Affairs officer
- USIA libraries in India
- President Rajagopolachariar
- Embassy operations
- Henderson dislike of Nehru
- Description of Nehru
- Mrs. Loy Henderson
- Indian public attitude towards Americans
- National War College

Tokyo, Japan

1951-1953

- Ambassador Robert Murphy
- Political counselor
- Embassy operations under Murphy
- Attitude towards Japanese
- Living in Tokyo

Djakarta, Indonesia

1953-1955

- Deputy Chief of Mission
- Ambassador Cochran
- “Shaking up the Embassy”

Internal politics
Ambassador Hugh Cumming
Dealing with Sukarno
Conflict with Ambassador Cumming

Naha, Okinawa 1955-1956
Consul general and political advisor
Local environment
Local politics

Director General of Foreign Service 1966-1969
Why appointed
Relations with William Crockett
Sensitivity training fiasco
Crockett's problems with Pres. Johnson and Congress

Relations with politics to career Foreign Service
White House influence on promotions, assignments
Need for career service
Benefits of language skills
Changes in attitudes towards service
Need for both generalists and specialists
Comments on the "cone" system
Comments on Wristonization
Comments on other agency operations abroad
Idar Rimestad influence
"Feminist" and "youth" movements
Equal opportunity – minorities
Vietnam influence